

To the FCC; This is just wrong to limit the ability of XM radio to transmit Local Information. This is along the lines of limiting Sat. Television so that they could not transmit local stations or cable companies from doing the same thing. Every owner of a XM radio pays a subscription every month so XM's broadcasting is not in the clear much like you have to subscribe to Cable or Sat TV. So if you make a ruling against XM who is next the cable industry or the Sat industry. So please review what you are thinking about doing and look at what a snowball you will create if you rule in favor of the NBA. Instead of embracing new tech they want to try and take it out of existence. I have only had XM for a few months and I enjoy it much more than regular radio.

Thank you

John Graham